

SWAP DAY

Howling dogs, yapping peddlers and hopeful swappers get together about once a month in many small southern communities. It's known as "Swap Day," a tradition that goes back to the early days when money was scarce and people bought and sold on a barter system.

Present day exhibitors set up their displays on trucks, cars and folding tables in promenades or fields to spend a pleasant day looking, selling, buying, trading, gossiping and enjoying themselves.

In the old days shoppers were primarily interested in mules. What with tractors, you seldom see a mule nowadays. Emphasis is on hunting hounds and guns. There are plenty of other things for sale or barter too, ranging from horse collars to ax handles, sorghum to auto jacks and clothes to home-made preserves.

Amid all this are preachers haranguing the crowd, tin pan repair men and patent medicine salesmen competing for attention with the traders.

At the end of the day no one is surprised to see a truck that was overflowing when it arrived in the morning still that way when it leaves. But the merchandise aboard it may be different.

The economics of the day are less important than the fun had by all and who knows, maybe somebody may need an old horse collar, butter churn, hound dog, duck decoy or other odd or useful items.

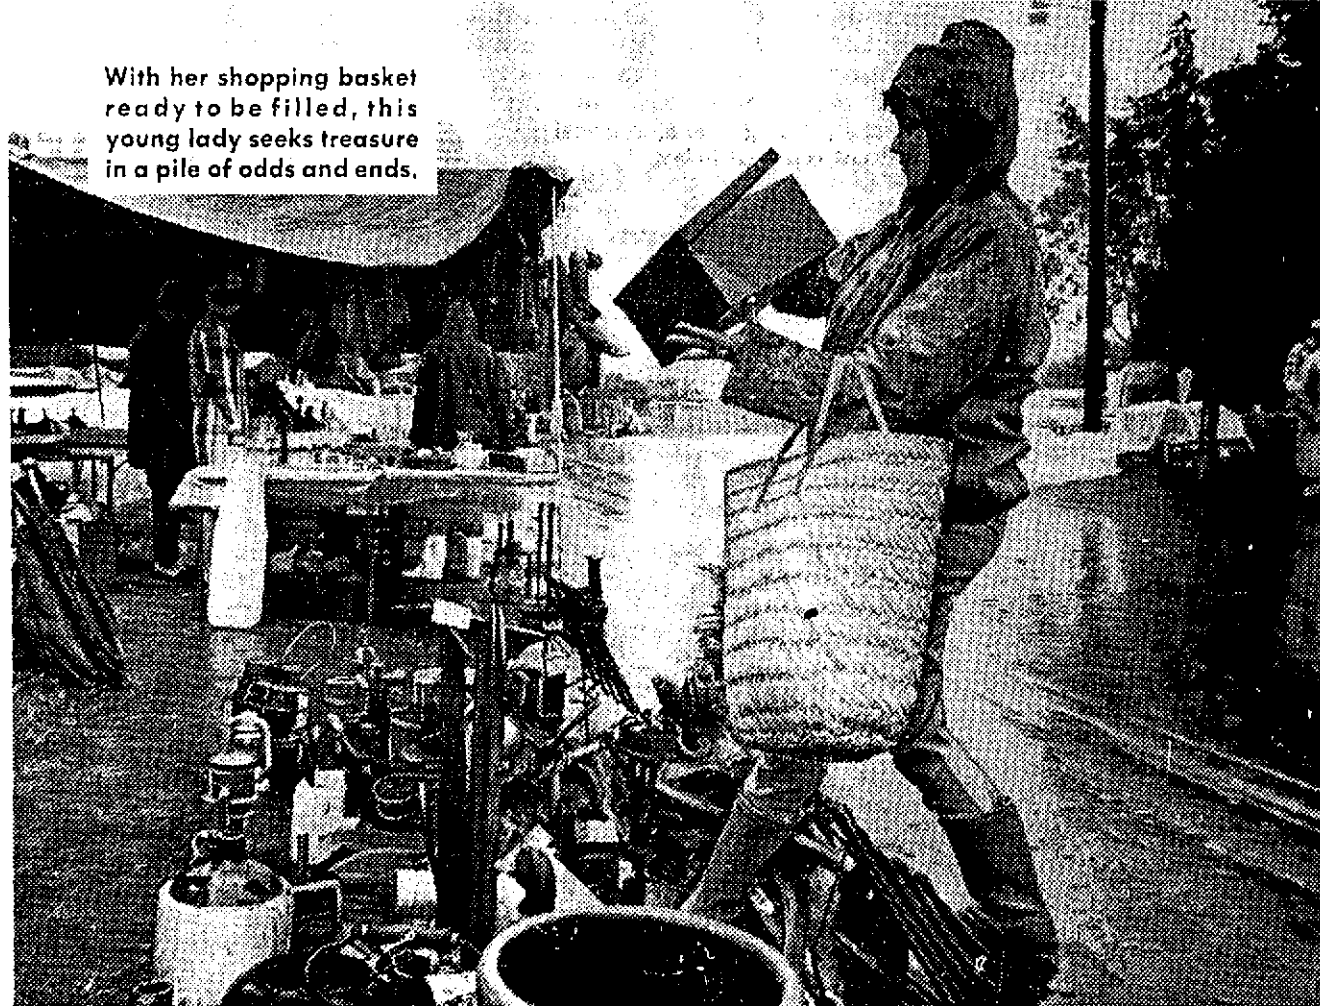

Here's a look at a typical Swap Day, held the first Monday of every month, in the town of Canton, Texas, 60 miles east of Dallas.

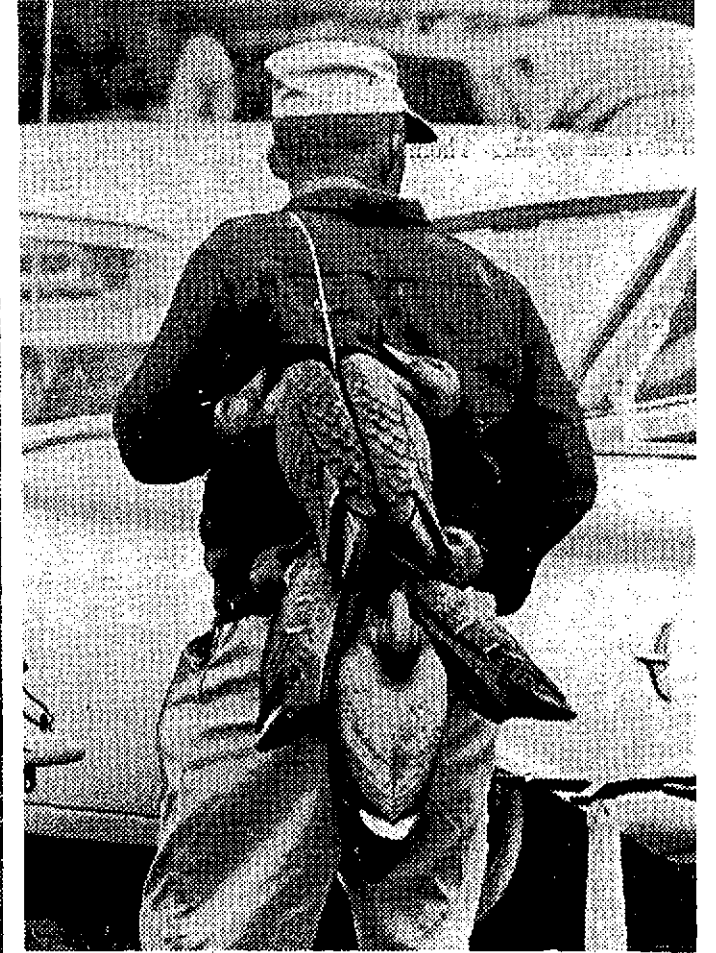

An assortment of odds and ends is spread out for inspection by this patient trader.

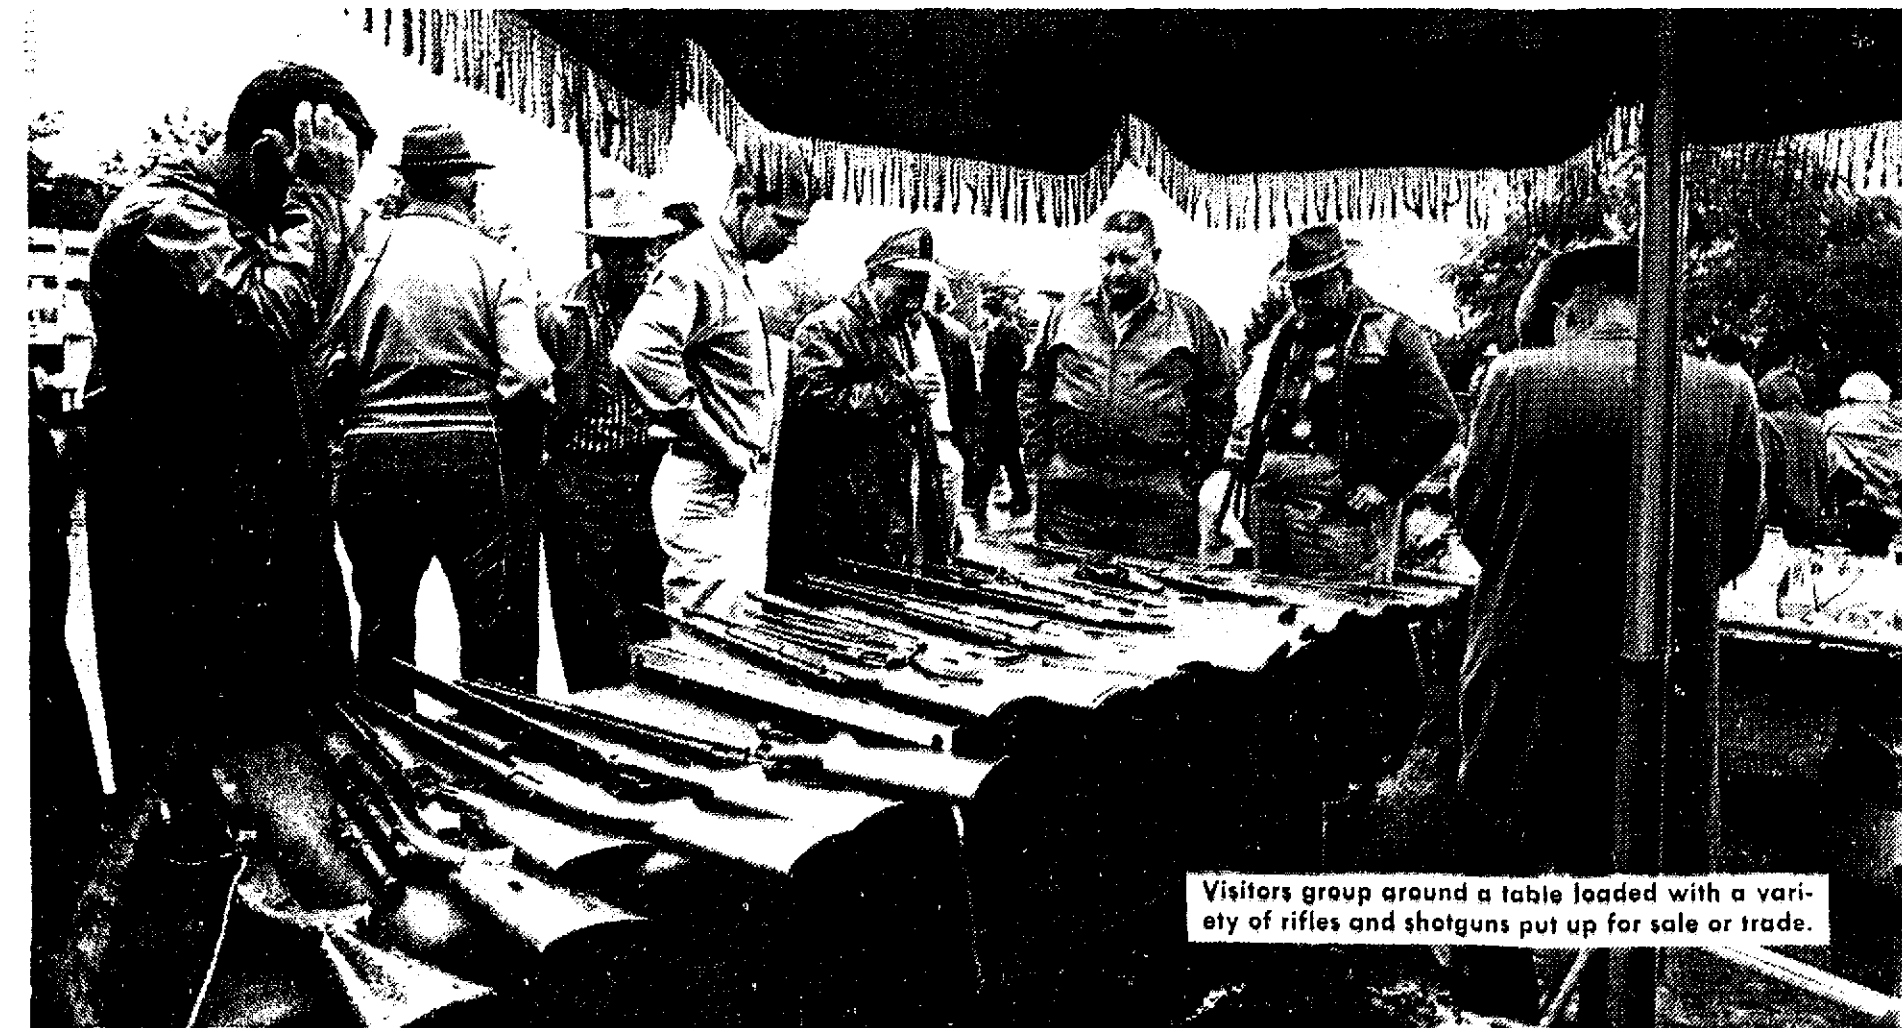

A nostalgic bit of the past comes to life again in the granny bonnets worn by these swap day visitors.

With her shopping basket ready to be filled, this young lady seeks treasure in a pile of odds and ends.

A successful trader walks off with a brace of decoy ducks slung over his shoulder.

Visitors group around a table loaded with a variety of rifles and shotguns put up for sale or trade.

A pack of hound dogs waits patiently for new masters during Canton's swap day.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Parents: Keep Checking Child's Teething Schedule

BY WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Judge Morris T. is about 70 and he has an excellent set of natural teeth except for two missing lower premolars, right and left. In their place are his baby molars which have never come out and are still in good condition.

Schoolteacher Mary C. is about 31 and she too has a full complement of teeth except for two missing ones, upper right and left lateral incisors. She also has baby teeth that never came out.

This phenomenon of missing teeth is not unusual. Many people are born with this irregularity and very often the corresponding baby teeth are retained and function as permanent teeth. Paired teeth are usually involved so that the same tooth is absent from both sides of the jaw. It's not certain why, but the tooth buds do not form. There are many contributing causes but the chief cause seems to be a hereditary defect: Morris T. has the same teeth missing as his grandfather.

The baby teeth that remain are usually strong and firmly

Canada Selling Wheat to China

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada will sell Red China at least 56 million more bushels of wheat over the next three years under an expanded agreement by the Canadian Wheat Board.

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp told the House of Commons Tuesday last night of the amendment to the agreement signed last year.

The new maximum level is 280 million bushels and the minimum has been raised to 168 million.

LBJ Brings Back Aid to Kennedy

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Jack and I hit it off from the start," said Walt W. Rostow, an idea man for John F. Kennedy before and after he moved into the White House.

President Johnson, who has shown great respect for some of the brainy men Kennedy picked as helpers, has now brought Rostow, intellectual and former professor, back to the White House to help him.

Rostow will have the title of special assistant but, since he and Johnson never worked this closely together before, it remains to be seen how well they hit it off.

The move really put Rostow, 49, back in his old job. For most of Kennedy's first presidential year Rostow was in the White House as deputy special assistant to the President for national security affairs.

Late in 1961 he moved over to the State Department as counselor and head of its policy planning staff, a job he held until Thursday when Johnson reached out and brought him back to the White House.

This kind of job-juggling is a little mystifying. Rostow's policy planning staff at the State Department took in the whole range of American foreign policy, present and future.

As a White House idea man for Johnson, Rostow probably will get mixed up in some domestic as well as foreign problems although Johnson indicated Rostow won't have to worry about much domestic stuff.

Johnson said Rostow will operate principally in the foreign policy field, explaining: "I shall look to him as a catalyst of ideas and programs on various continents of the world."

This is where the puzzle comes in: Why is it more important to have Rostow at the White House than heading State's policy planners, since his principal task in his new job will be the foreign field?

It might seem natural to conclude that Rostow will be the successor of the brilliant McGeorge Bundy, former Harvard dean, who was Kennedy's top White House assistant on foreign policy and link with the State Department. But Johnson brushes aside that idea.

He denies Rostow or anyone else is taking the place of Bundy who was kept in his job by Johnson until he recently resigned to become president of the Ford Foundation. He had a very high regard for Bundy's brains.

Johnson says he has appointed five men including Rostow, to share Bundy's responsibilities. Nevertheless as of now Rostow looks like the closest thing to Bundy.

Rostow first met Kennedy in 1958 and fed him ideas and did the same for him in the 1960 presidential campaign. Rostow had also helped the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower with ideas from time to time.

Rostow had a major part in shaping several of Kennedy's foreign policy statements in 1960 and some credit him with a big role in the launching of Kennedy's "Alliance for Progress" with Latin America.

He has had a special interest in Latin America, Russia, Red China, and communism in general. But he moved over to the State Department two years before Johnson became President.

Rostow, an economist and economic historian, after his graduation from Yale taught at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at Oxford and Cambridge in England.

Confirmation Rite for Princess

LONDON, England (AP) — Princess Anne, 15-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, has been confirmed and thus is qualified to take Holy Communion in the Church of England.

The queen, Prince Philip and several guests were present at the confirmation Tuesday night in the royal family's private chapel in Windsor Castle.

The confirmation rite — a placing of hands on the head of the recipient — was performed by the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey.

'Batman' to Be Held Over for a Night

So many calls were received by Mrs. Velda Seamans, manager of the local theatres from folks who could not attend the Saturday matinee showings of "Batman and Robin," that she has made arrangements for this full length sensational entertainment to be held over for a one night showing at the Dixie Drive Theatre, Sunday night.

The show will commence promptly at 7 p.m. and here is a chance for the whole family to really have a big evening of entertainment and fun with Batman as originally presented — everything else you are seeing is just an imitation of the original Batman and Robin serial.

Crackdown on U.S. Drug Makers

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — The doctor who is commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration bluntly prescribed a stiff dose of self-regulation today for the drug manufacturing industry, which he said is exhibiting symptoms of a disease that drugs cannot cure.

"That disease is irresponsibility," Dr. James L. Goddard said in an address prepared for the annual meeting of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

"You cannot afford to have it in your midst any longer," he told the businessmen. "You, as the leaders of this industry, are capable of insuring that such irresponsibility is corrected."

"I am placing this challenge before you today," he said. "I am asking you to join us in correcting abuses and in seeking — not what will just 'get by' — but what is excellent in the science of drugs."

Goddard said he is alarmed about the future of the drug industry.

Belated Cantata Praises Stalin

MOSCOW (AP) — The belated premiere of Sergei Prokofiev's cantata honoring the October Revolution omitted two movements praising Stalin, musical sources reported today.

The cantata "For the 20th Anniversary of the October Revolution" was written in 1937 but didn't get its first performance in Moscow until Tuesday night, at a program honoring the 75th anniversary of the composer's birth.

Some observers viewed the omissions as an official gesture to a group of 25 Communist party intellectuals who last month wrote party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev that "any step toward rehabilitation of Stalin's memory would lead to a new split in the ranks of Communists" and would be interpreted as weakness in the face of Chinese praise for Stalin.

Foss Out in the AFL, Man to Be Named

HOUSTON (AP) — American Football League team owners were expected to name a new commissioner today to succeed Joe Foss.

Foss, commissioner since the league was founded six years ago, resigned Thursday, effective immediately, without announcing his future plans.

A name mentioned prominently around league headquarters as Foss' successor was Al Davis as the owners continued executive session in an effort to name the new commissioner. Davis is head coach-general manager of the Oakland Raiders.

Ralph D. Wilson, league president and owner of the Buffalo Bills, declined to identify any one under consideration saying only "we are discussing a number of candidates."

Milt Woodard, secretary-treasurer, automatically became acting commissioner but he let it be known he was not an applicant for the permanent job.

Wilson also said expansion was discussed but indicated awarding of the league's 10th franchise probably would be made later in the year. There were reports that Chicago headed the list of candidates for the site of the next franchise.

Foss announced he was resigning his $50,000 a year job as commissioner just hours after denying he planned to do so. His multi-year contract was to have expired Jan. 15, 1968.

After his resignation, Foss, 51, a former Republican governor of South Dakota, told newsmen he had several job offers but declined to "laborate. He did not completely close the door on re-entering politics.

Not Married to Younger Man

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Maureen O'Sullivan says she is not married to a French rabbinical student who is 32 years younger than she is.

A newspaper columnist in New York reported Wednesday that Miss O'Sullivan, 55, had married Henri Sobell, 23. Said Sobell: "It's ridiculous and phony. I've known her for a very short time and have seen her only a few times."

Miss O'Sullivan is the mother of seven children. The oldest is 22.

Didn't Compose It

Robert Burns did not compose the song "Auld Lang Syne." He said he took down the words as he heard an old man sing them, but he is usually given credit for writing them.

Backfired Advice
Dear Helen: I hope you will remember me. I wrote about my problem of being too well-mannered so the girls made fun of me. Well your advice worked great (keep on with the good manners but don't wear them like a banner). The girls are really nice to me now. They say I'm not like those other hoos.

Well, girls are fun, but since I became so popular my buddies won't talk to me. Now they mock me out and call me "Angel-face" and "Cutie-pie." When the girls aren't around, that is. Once they threatened me. I will not repeat the vulgar language they used, but putting it nicely they said if I didn't stop being such a do-gooder, I'd be sorry.

What do I do now? I want my buddies back! — Green Don

Dear Don: I'd make a wild guess your buddies are jealous. Give them a few pointers on how to catch a girl; share the wealth (you don't want them ALL, do you? AND I think your boy troubles will be over. Now, clear the deck for girl troubles!

(My second wildest guess is that "Green Don" is putting me on. Lemme know if I'm right.) — H.

Dear Helen: This girl said she loved me but she wanted to go out with other guys. Since then she's been seeing one boy. All I have now is the ring she gave back to me. I've called her, written, begged, and tried to forget, but nothing helps. If she still loves me, how can she treat me this way. I can't forget her. Is there any way to get her back? — R. C.

Dear R: If you got her back for good, your tune might soon change from "How can I win her?" to "How can I WIN?" A girl who cuts the line but still keeps a boy on the hook isn't worth his love. You CAN forget her — and the best way is with another girl. — H.

Dear Helen: I got the axe from my girl. Now I have an invitation to her wedding. Must

God's Word Says Come

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

It is now three days after that terrible Dark Friday when God said unto them, "Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day; and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached among all nations." The weighty stones are being rolled away from the grave doors and the Spirit is becoming triumphant over death. The Old Rugged Cross and Christ's tomb are both being snatched, forever, from their association with death. Now,—just then, Heavenly love turned the gloomiest Dark Friday in the annals of human history into a very Good Friday. All that Christmas ever meant to the world is now wholly sanctified in Easter. Christ's promise that, He would build the Temple again in three days, has been fulfilled. Easter is the springtime of the soul and Crucifixion has more radiant beauty and deep meaning when we see it through the fragrant glory of the snow white lily. Easter symbolizes the Crucifixion, Burial and Resurrection of our True Leader. The event is packed with all the drama of human emotion we can withstand. Hallelujah, it is Easter. A-men.

NY Plans to Crackdown on City Crime

By JOHN MORGANTHALER NEW YORK (AP) — "Operation Crackdown," which put uniformed policemen in every subway and train, has cut major nighttime subway crime by 62.3 per cent in its first year, the Transit Authority says.

But the transit police say they are strained by the extra night work, and demand that the 2-722 - member force be nearly doubled.

"Operation Crackdown" was launched one year ago today by the then Mayor Robert F. Wagner after a series of brutal subway murders, robberies and assaults.

He assigned a policeman to every train and station from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. Because there weren't enough transit police to do the job then, 800 regular city policemen were temporarily assigned to subway duty. The cost was placed at $1.8 million per month, counting the off-day overtime required of 1,000 city police.

Since then, the transit police force has been beefed up, most recently by 612 new officers on March 15. The authority says "operation crackdown" is so effective it will be continued.

The case that launched the plan was the murder of Andrew Mormile, 17, on a subway train in Brooklyn in March, 1965. Half asleep, Mormile was awakened by another youth who demanded cigarettes and money, which Mormile gave him.

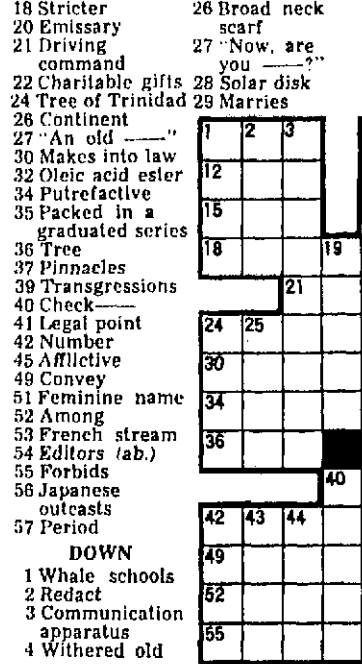

Vacancies by Appointment LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Vacancies in the mayor's office in second-class cities are filled by appointment of the city council.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett advised alderman T. G. Thompson Jr. of Lepanto Tuesday. Bennett's opinion said that the man appointed as mayor can be a candidate to succeed himself.

How to Use Trump Echo

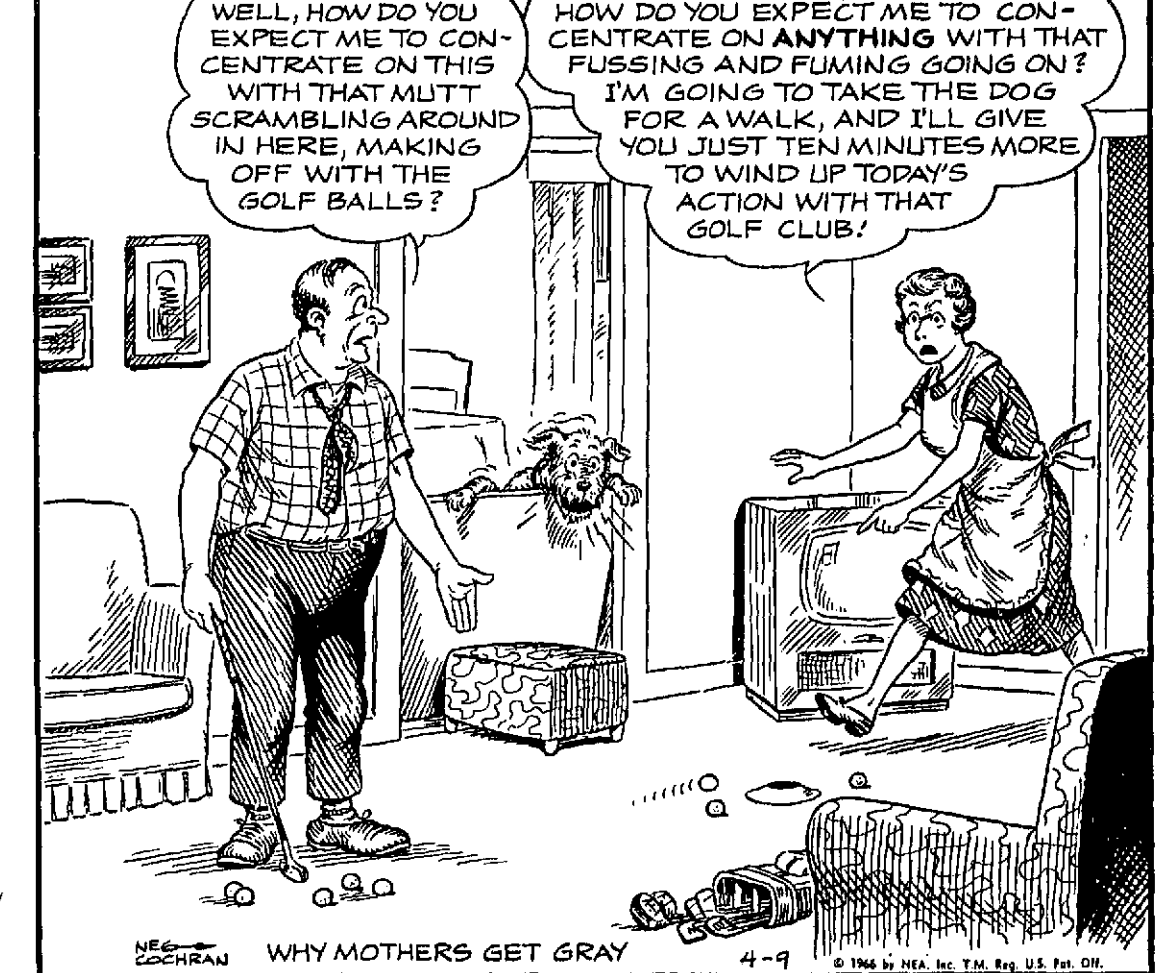

By JACOB & SON
1935 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Just to increase the general difficulty the average bridge player has with defensive signals we come to the trump echo. When you echo (play high-low instead of normal low-high) in a side suit you are either showing strength or an even number of cards in the suit. The trump echo on the other hand is used to show an odd number of cards. The reason for this is that if you only hold two trumps you may not want to spare the higher one to show two but when you have three trumps you can almost always afford the middle one of three. Here is a good example of the trump echo at work. East wins the heart opening with his ace and returns the ten of hearts (suit preference signal) as discussed in yesterday's article. West ruffs this second heart and is careful to ruff with the five spot, not the three. Then he leads back the three of diamonds. South hops up with dummy's ace and leads a spade. East takes his ace and this time West drops the three spot. He has completed a trump echo so that if East has been watching the spots as all good players should he knows that his partner holds another trump. East leads a third heart and West ruffs for the setting trick. Just for the record, South could have made the hand if he had run off four club tricks and discarded the last two hearts from dummy but of course he wouldn't know that East was sitting with exactly three clubs and the lone ace of spades.

It's a Salute to the Master

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (NEA)

At the seder service which ushers in the Passover holiday, celebrating the Hebrew exodus from Egypt, it is customary for the youngest to ask, "What makes this night different from all other nights?"

Not to be sacrilegious, but Masters Week, a festive rite of the South, coincides with the Passover holidays. And the question is well asked, "What makes the Masters golf tournament different from all other tournaments of the year?"

It's not the money. The top prize of $20,000, paid last year to Jack Nicklaus, is nothing to sneeze at. But there were seven other tournaments last year which paid just as much to the winner. And five which paid more, including both the U.S. Open and the PGA which rival the Masters for prestige and doled out top loot of $25,000.

It's not the weather. Although the magnolias and the azaleas are generally in bloom, it can come up blustery and nasty in northern Georgia at this time of year.

It's not the course. The Augusta National Golf Club, a sacrosanct vale most of the year, is tailored for the chosen few long hitters like Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, and actually plays with a minimum of trouble. In fact, after Nicklaus roared through it with a record 271 last year, Jimmy Demaret, a three-time winner of the Masters, said the course was outdated and should be torn apart and redone on several holes.

It's not the southern hospitality. Cliff Roberts, a New York banker, runs the Masters as his private preserve, with an autocratic hand that generally ignores the public and herds the spectators like cattle. (To be perfectly fair, the crowds are so large that stringent measures are necessary. And Bobby Jones is a warm host for the players.)

It's not the caliber of the field. The Masters is played between you'n'me

by invitation only, with the course cluttered by amateurs and nondescript pros from foreign lands (no prejudice intended), while some deserving young regulars on the tour are excluded.

It's not the moss-dripping charm of Augusta. That southern industrial city turns into something of a rat race during Masters Week. There aren't enough places to sleep, and the restaurants—not for gourmets to begin with—are jammed.

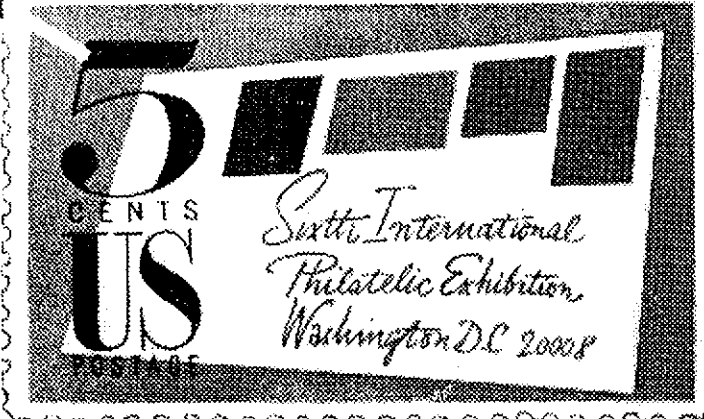

So 50,000 masochists flock in like a locust epidemic because, starting April 7, Augusta is the place to be. It's where the action is.

A young lawyer from Cleveland named Mark McCormack recognized it several years ago when he went about signing up golf's so-called Big Three—Nicklaus, Palmer and Gary Player. They proceeded to win seven of the last eight fiestas at Augusta, which was redubbed the Mark McCormack Open.

The attraction of the Masters is that it comes in the early spring when everybody's tired of a winter's hibernation. And the smell of honeysuckle on the vine is a strong lure to get outdoors in a scenic setting like the Augusta National course. From McCormack's standpoint, the timing is right, too. A winner has the rest of the spring, all summer and fall to turn a Masters triumph into a bonanza of endorsements and lucrative exhibition appearances.

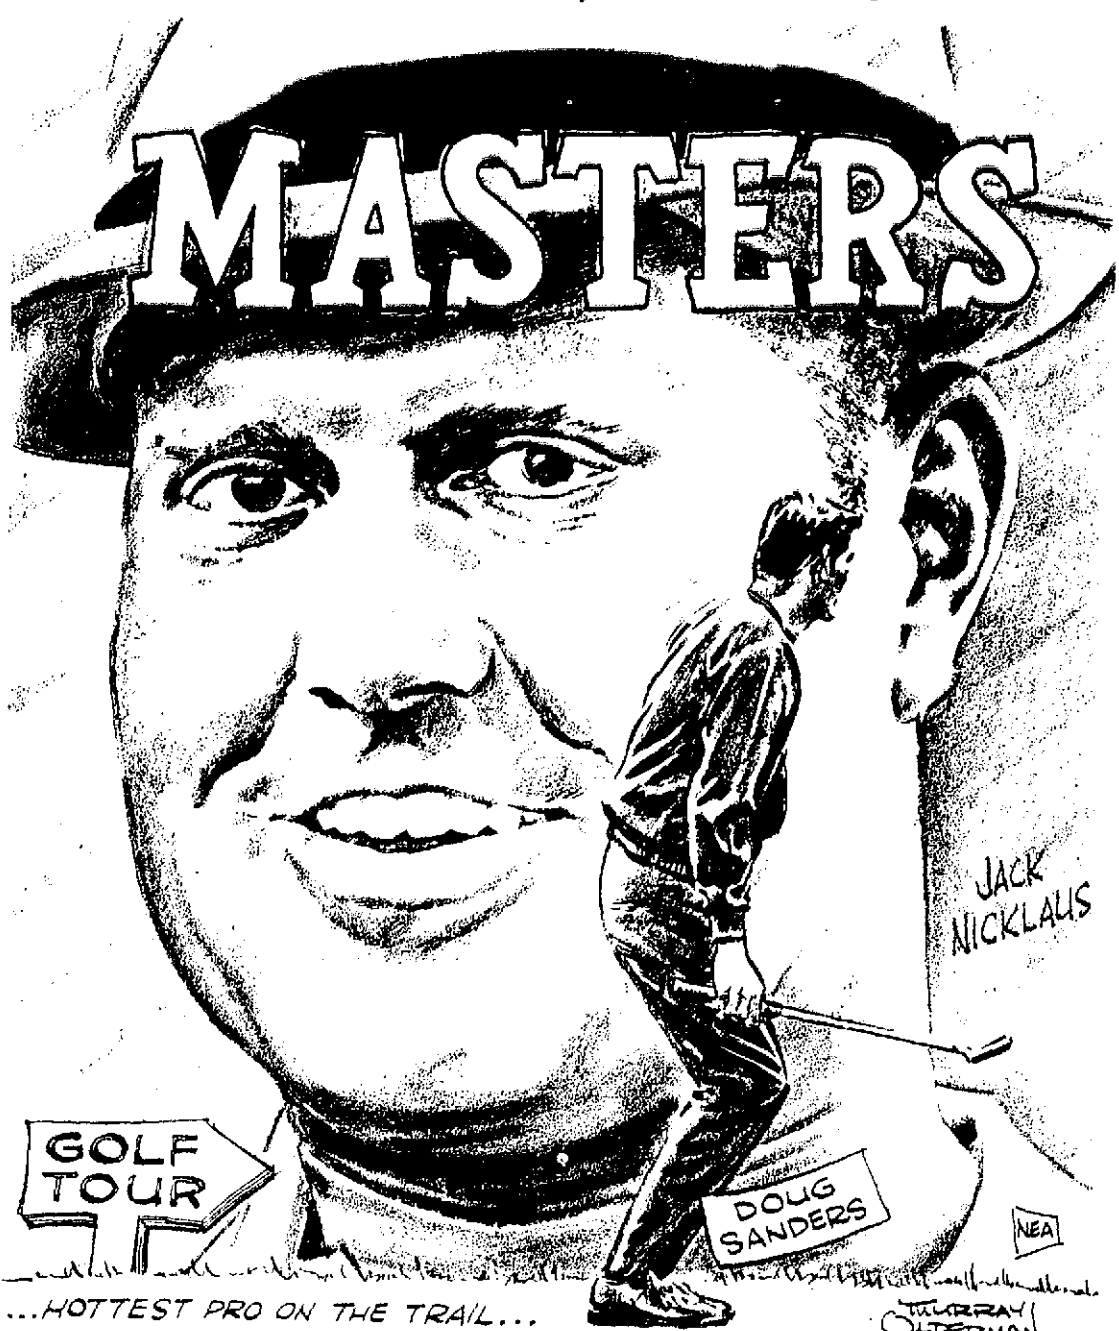

Finally, there is the tradition fostered by Bobby Jones, the most venerable name in golf history. Bobby is restricted because of his crippling illness to the white cottage on the 18th fairway, but everywhere golf is played, it is known that the Masters is played in tribute to him, the only man to achieve the Grand Slam.

He created it and perpetuated it. Gullers come there as the ultimate salute to the masters to the Master.

STAMP SHOWING—A five-cent stamp marking the Sixth International Philatelic Exhibition will be issued May 21 when the stamp showing opens in Washington. In red, blue, pink, green, black and white, the horizontal stamp features four simulated stamps on a white envelope against a gray background.

LOOMING BIG, AS ALWAYS

HIGH SIGN—Gay Brewer, one of the leading money winners on the PGA tour, has a rivalry going with Doug Sanders. Sanders beat him at Jacksonville by one stroke after Brewer won at Pensacola.

EVEN-UP—Arnold Palmer has won the Masters three times beginning in 1960, all in even years. This being 1966, he's one of the favorites again.

Most Popular?—Bruins Repeat

LOS ANGELES—(NEA)—Although UCLA lost its national basketball title to Texas Western this year, the Bruins were still popular with the paying fans.

In 26 games, the 1964 and 1965 NCAA champions attracted 271,837 spectators for an average of 10,455 fans per game.

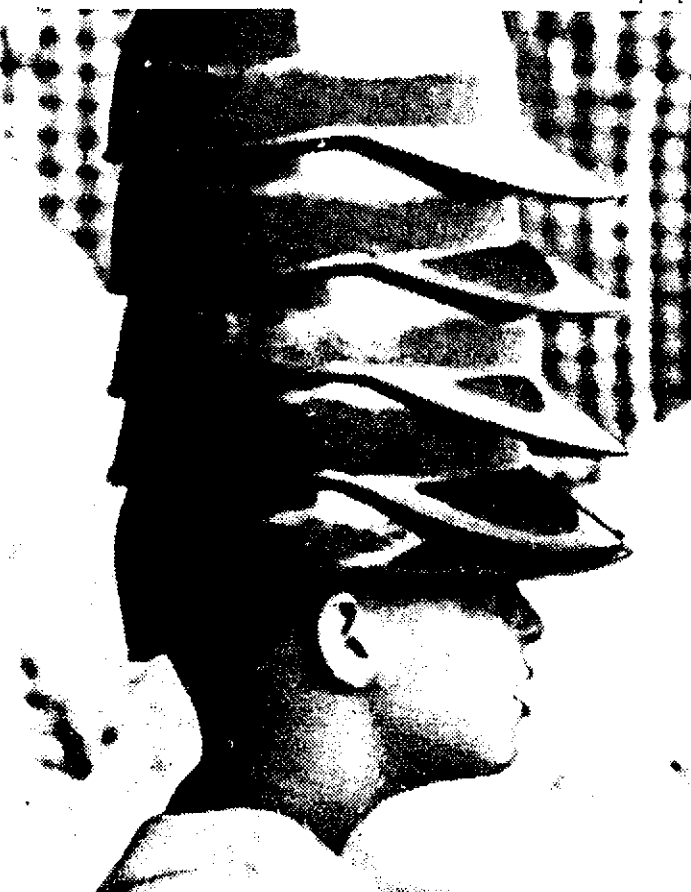

In 11 home games at the new Pauley Pavilion on the UCLA campus, attendance was 132,775, an average of 12,070.

The road attendance average was 9,271 per game. The largest gathering to see the Bruins was in Chicago Stadium for a game against Loyola (18,193).

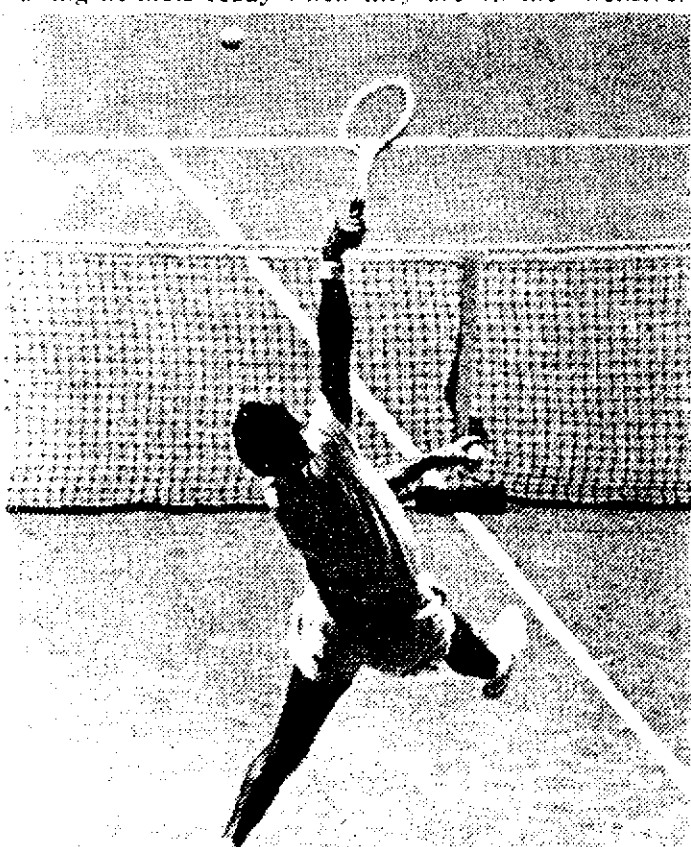

Other five-figure crowds were 14,752 vs. Southern California in the Los Angeles Sports Arena; 11,666 vs. Duke in Charlotte, N.C.; and 10,307 vs. Oregon State in Corvallis, Ore.

An increase is expected next year. That's when John Wooden unveils a sophomore named Lew Alcindor, one of the most sought high school players in basketball history.

Judging from his freshman records, Alcindor may become the biggest drawing attraction in basketball since Wilt Chamberlain.

MAD HATTER—Timmy Simmons, batboy for the St. Louis Cardinals, has discovered a novel way of keeping batting helmets ready when they are on the offensive.

PANCHO'S DANCE—Pancho Gonzalez may be getting older, but you'd never know it as he leaps high to return this shot. The Californian is still the top attraction on the professional tour.

FORM CHARTS Los Angeles Dodgers

PITCHING—Not since the great Cleveland staffs of the early 1950s has there been anything to match Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen. Last year Koufax finished at 26-8, Drysdale 23-12 and Osteen 15-15, though his ERA was 2.79. Howie Reed (7-5), Johnny Podres (7-6) and Nick Willits (2-2) will battle for the fourth starting role. Ron Perranoski is still the top emergency man in the bullpen along with Bob Miller. Not that the Dodgers need it badly, but extra help may come from Phil Regan, obtained in a trade with Detroit, or Joe Mueller and Bill Snyder, both up from Spokane. What more is there to say about Koufax and Drysdale? RATING—A.

INFIELD—As long as Maury Wills is running, the Dodgers seemingly have a tenth man in the batting order. The Dodger shortstop stole 94 bases last season and was the club's leading hitter (.286). The No. 2 hitter was Junior Gilliam. Or is it Senior by now? Junior wasn't even on the roster last year during training, but was a coach. He's starting the same way this year. And how long do you think it will be before he's in the lineup and hitting .280 like last year? At second base it's Jim Lefebvre, the National League's rookie of the year. He hit only .250 but was second to Ron Fairly in RBI with 69, many in game-winning situations. Steady Wes Parker is at first.

OUTFIELD—Tommy Davis, out with a broken ankle last season, should be fine now. So the question is where does that leave Lou Johnson? Johnson filled in for Tommy

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Word spread quickly through the packed lobby and out into the street that Senator Wimp had nailed Serious Cicero Murphy, then announced he was going to retire.

People like Lou (Machine Gun) Butera and Joe (The Butcher) Balsis weren't moved. "Luther always says something like that after he wins," said Balsis, smiling.

Luther is Luther Lassiter, 47, of Elizabeth City, N. C. He is known as "Senator Wimp" because he is cool, silver-haired and non-melancholic and loves hamburgers.

For the third time in four years, Lassiter had won the World's Pocket Billiards Championship, beating the laconic, intense Cicero Murphy in a playoff, set up when Lassiter and Murphy finished play in the 15-man field with identical 11-3 records.

Machine Gun and The Butcher, who finished third and fourth, were right—Lassiter wasn't going to retire.

"Why, how did a rumor like that get started?" Lassiter asked in mock indignation. "All I said was that I wasn't going to play any more tournaments THIS YEAR. Right now I just want to loaf and live for awhile."

According to Cue Ball Kelly, a tournament official, this is Lassiter's way of letting the guns of tournament pool know he is still very much on the scene, that he hadn't lost his touch as some suspected after he finished third in the tournament in 1965.

That's the way it is in this highly pressurized sport. A word, a gesture, an icy stare can speak volumes.

What a guy doesn't say is far more important than what he says.

And nicknames—everybody who is anybody in pocket billiards has one—are precise and measure a man right down to the marrow. Balsis, the 1965 champion, is called "The Butcher" because he looks like one and he can stare an opponent down as if he were a side of beef.

Machine Gun Butera moves around a table in bursts, seemingly picking his shots in sequences of threes and fours.

Pocket billiards is straight pool. It is not to be confused with Willie Hoppe and three-cushion billiards, an entirely different game. Beyond the cue stick, there isn't enough similarity between the two even to begin to argue which game has more pressure and which takes more skill.

The experts who watched the Lassiter-Murphy playoff said the Senator never was more beautiful.

"He's probably the greatest pressure player in the game," Cue Ball Kelly said. "Sometimes it seems like he can't play unless there's pressure, and Cicero gave him just enough."

Murphy, cool and confident, the first Negro ever to play in the World Tournament and the only completely ambidextrous player in the game, ran 50 balls before missing to take a 11-65 lead in the playoff.

This meant Lassiter had to run 85 and out (the first to reach 150 wins) because to miss and give Murphy another chance would "turn school out," as they say in pool parlors.

So that's what the Senator did.

Pool's big guns face the pressure in different ways. Murphy is expressionless, looks at no one and says nothing. Lassiter laughs, jokes with the gallery and acts as though he's as soon he is in a diner munching a hamburger.

When Murphy missed a

difficult cut shot in the corner pocket on his 112th shot, he mumbled something that looked like, "Oh!" It was the only time his lips had moved in two hours.

"Murphy cracked," a spectator said.

PARKER DAM, CALIF.—(NEA)—We stood looking out over the canyon reservoir at dusk blowing along the Arizona desert beyond.

Gerry Walin from Edmonds, Wash., said, "I've had stomach butterflies before, but these are tramping around with great big feet." They couldn't have been too big. The 26-year-old University of Washington senior weighs 120 and just fits in the five-foot cockpit of his boat.

We'd been standing at this sheltered stretch of Lake Havasu for four days as the pressure built up, waiting for the ripples to disappear. Enough for Gerry to set a new world's record. No one had ever driven an outboard faster than 122 miles an hour, and that was six years ago.

Walsh could remember ripples of a year and a half ago. His hydro hit at 85 miles an hour on Lake Washington. It couldn't decide to turn airplane or submarine and tried both. It broke Gerry's back in four places, and the doctors figured if he lived he wouldn't walk again.

Now Hu Entrop, the Seattle craftsman who set the 1960 record, had built a new rocket-shaped boat, Starlite IV, and was back to coach

Gerry through the traps. Walin was getting a lot of advice, but there was only room for one jockey-sized driver in the cockpit and he had to drive it alone. He lay on his back and steered with a control rod on each side while he looked forward between his feet.

First day out the boat had suddenly nosed over and headed straight down. Walin popped the escape canopy and was out in seconds. Only the windscreen was broken by the crush of water. Gerry wedged back in after it was replaced and the trials went on. Engine manufacturer Ralph Evinrude paced the launching ramp. He had driven nearly every kind of race boat around for the last 40 years, but there was no way to get his 250 pounds in this miniature missile. The engine, a stock 100-horse outboard, had long tuned exhaust stacks added, and a streamlined lower unit bolted on and tiny racing prop.

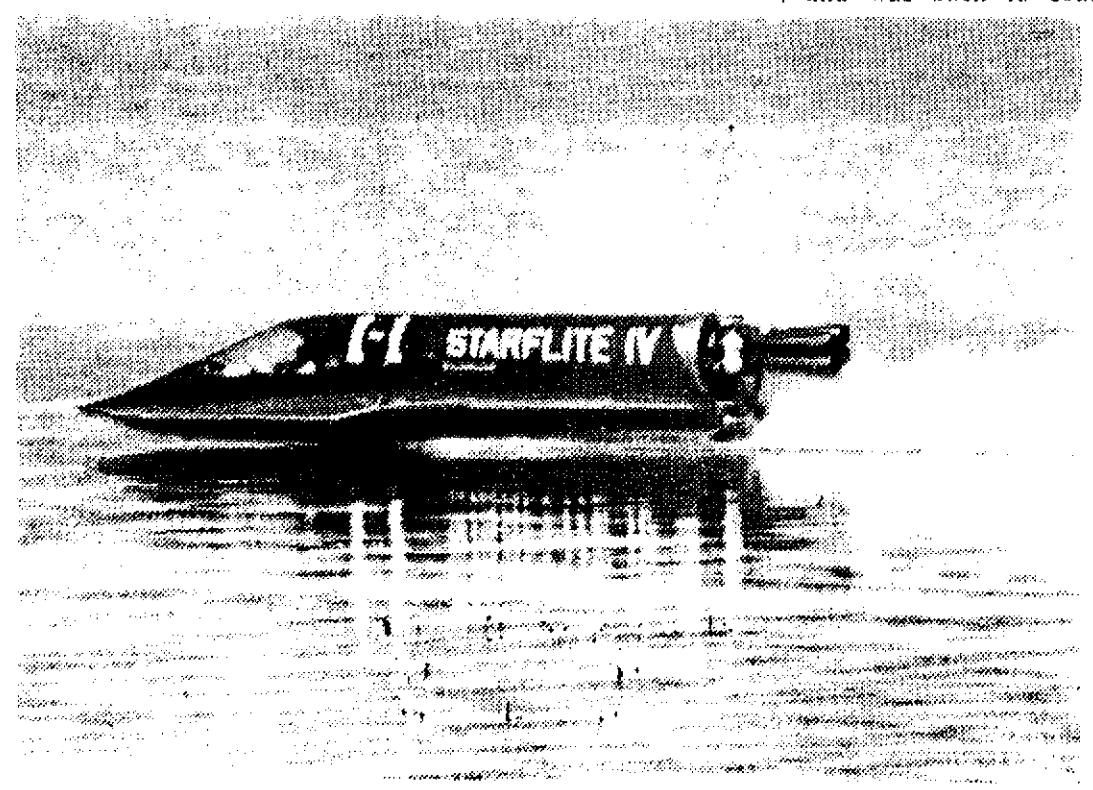

One run through the measured kilometer would be hot but the next not right. Or Starlite's mid-gel gas tank would run dry during the three-mile circle it took to turn at 90 after stroking through the traps. Finally, on the fifth day, two years of preparations fell into place. Otto Crocker, timer from the Salt Flats, lined up Gerry on the first pass as his computers ticked thousands. Walin circled and screamed his little sled back through the course the other way.

Otto whispered the results to the American Power Boat Assn. referee, Marion Beaver. Engineers Doc Jones and Jack Leek beat has-been driver Entrop on the back.

The new world's record for outboards was up to 130.929 miles per hour.

Not New

Ancient Greeks, before the Christian era, made a wooden pigeon that flew, so mechanical toys are not new. Air escaping from an animal bladder, as from a balloon, propelled the ancient toy.

FOR THE RECORD—Gerry Walin of Edmonds, Wash., owns the new record for outboards (130.929 miles per hour). He set it with Starlite IV which carried a stock 100-horse outboard engine. The old record was 122 miles per hour.

Most Glorious Season on the Christian Calendar Is the Season of Easter

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

This is the most glorious season on the Christian calendar and to those of the Jewish faith it also holds much significance. One of the major creative forces and sources of nourishment for Western culture has been its Judeo-Christian religious heritage. No one will probably argue that point, though sometime that heritage has been distorted a little by "good" people. In a recent article on Christianity and what was called, Marxism-Leninism, Richard N. Bender of Nashville, Tenn., pointed out that periodically rival world views have challenged the Christian interpretation of life. It will come as a surprise or even a shock, to find the many ways in which the followers of Christianity and Communism share in beliefs. It is the interpretation of those beliefs which presents the greatest difference.

In the Holy Scriptures Paul called the transformation of character "a new creation." But in Russia it is "the new Soviet man." In certain aspects the two are similar, but they are contemplated in a different pattern. Studying the two makes one realize that however bitter Mars and his successors were against all religion, it is no accident that Marxism had its birth in Western Hebrew-Christian culture. Yet there are significant differences which appear to show strong conflict. These differences concern doctrine, history, theory of the good society, ethics, and ultimate loyalty. Perhaps the chief difference is that to the Christian, man is significant because his creation is an expression of God's love. His destiny is a matter of continuing concern to God. Mankind has not been reduced to mere numbers in God's Book of Life.

We hear and know of threats to the Christian way of life and respond with quick verbal defense in most cases. But during the 20th century a major new challenge has emerged, and too often we tend to overlook it or to place it in a no-great-threat-to-me category. We are speaking of an "ism" that is blandly called Materialism. Now that doesn't sound like such a terrifying thing, does it? Maybe a little "worldly," but then we can miss our part in its usage by saying "we are only human."

The great truth of its seriousness is felt when we read "some form of materialism may determine personal and corporate life for 500 or 1,000 years." That is, if we don't do something about it. Our most serious threat doesn't lie in any direct attack, either in cold war or hot war, by so-called Communist Nations. The present danger is a home-because more and more our basic values are material values. How can that be in the midst of the blossoming of Spring and the glories of Easter with all its significance! We profess to be a Christian nation as our forefathers were who established this country. Now, at Easter-time emphasized the importance of Ideals over "isms." Everyone goes to church on Easter. Just be sure to listen to the message wrought by words, flowers, music, and the smiles of your fellow-men tomorrow. Then, live the message in your daily actions and no power on earth can defeat us.

Disaster Was Near in Bomb Recovery

PALOMARES BEACH, Spain (AP)—The commander of a U.S. task force disclosed today disaster almost overtook attempts to recover an H-bomb from the depths of the Mediterranean. Missing since the crash of a nuclear bomber last Jan. 17, the one-megaton bomb was hauled up from 2,850 feet Thursday.

Silvery in color and about 10 feet long by 3 feet thick, the bomb rested on the deck of the recovery ship, the submarine rescue vessel Petrel. Reporters aboard the task force flagship, the cruise Albany, could see it from about 65 feet away. Rear Adm. William S. Guest, commander of the task force of about 3,000 men that recovered the H-bomb, told newsmen the CURV—an unmanned torpedo recovery vehicle—was the equipment used finally to tie up the bomb for delivery to the surface.

He disclosed that the effort almost ended in disaster on Wednesday when the CURV became entangled in the nuclear weapon's parachute.

It took two hours of maneuvering by the CURV controller on the deck of its mother-ship before the vehicle was freed.

Guest estimated the bomb's weight at about eight tons. It appeared undamaged except for some dents at one end. Guest said it would be returned to the United States immediately.

Perhaps the Best Vehicle That Man Has Ever Known Is That of His Memory

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the best vehicle man has ever known?

Why, memory, of course. It is better than Cinderella's golden coach, because it doesn't turn into a pumpkin at midnight or any other hour.

It is better than a railroad car, because it doesn't have to stick to a schedule. It is free to travel to any place or time in the past it chooses to.

Memory is faster than a space missile, more comfortable than a limousine—and usually brings you back from a journey refreshed in body and heart. What else can you ask of a vehicle?

And you've put a lot of mileage on your own memory if you can look back and remember when—

You proved you were up on your slang by saying things like, "Oh, for crying out loud!"

Mother did so much sewing that half the time she kept a thimble on while doing her other household chores. Sometimes, when her eyes were tired, the youngest children would fight for the honor of threading her needle.

The only thing most people knew for sure about Czechoslovakia is that's where the prettiest glass ewes came from.

In summer it didn't pay to lean out the window of a street car if you were seated behind a fellow who chewed tobacco.

Most old farmers refused to wear their store teeth except when they went into town.

In a vaudeville, one funny routine would last a performer a lifetime. He didn't have to think up a new act every week.

Only schoolgirls wore long white stockings. Now you see 'em even on grandmothers.

It was fondly believed that a girl who packed a good picnic lunch would never have any trouble landing a good husband. It was harder to get a tire repaired than to have a horse reshod.

Every working man dreamed of owning at least one striped silk shirt.

The telephone was used so seldom that everybody in the house jumped when it rang—and assumed there was an emergency.

If you didn't like either of the major party presidential candidates, you could always express your discontent by voting for Norman Thomas.

The height of juvenile sophistication was to wear a lapel button that said, "Oh, you kid!"

Most businessmen thought golf was a game for idlers.

Progress in Artificial Body Cells

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—A Chinese-born scientist reported progress today toward developing "artificial body cells" which might eventually help fight diseases like gout.

Such cells, if perfected for human use, would be pinhead-sized, nylon plastic capsules, filled with human-cell chemicals, and mimicking some of the functions of the billions of living cells in the body. They would be used to treat blood in devices linked with the body by out-and-back again blood-flow tubes.

Dr. T. M. S. Chang, a McGill University physiologist, told about the quest—and of promising animal experiments with still-raw, pioneering versions of such cells—in an interview preceding a technical report to the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs.

The society is holding its annual convention here. Chang stressed that the artificial cell work is still in the experimental stage.

Jobless Plan Now Uses Mobility

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina wanted to move the jobless from its mountains and coastal plains to the jobs in its midsection, the Piedmont.

The North Carolina Fund, an anti-poverty agency, had the answer: Mobility.

Mobility already has taken 279 families at the very bottom of the economic ladder and moved them, lock, stock and barrel, from areas of low employment to places where jobs are abundant.

"Employers in the Piedmont are crying for workers," said Robert Lofaso, director of Mobility. "Machines are standing idle. Some companies have taken their salesman off the road because orders are piling up."

On the other hand, he said, "the eastern and mountain areas of the state are filled with people who need work."

Lofaso said Mobility makes sure there is a job waiting for a man before he and his family are moved.

Once the family is relocated, Mobility counselors help the wage earner so he does not swap one welfare roll for another. The counselors also help with relocation from rural to urban environments. This includes how to catch a bus, punch a time clock or enroll a child in school.

Lofaso says none of Mobility's clients has had to rely on welfare after relocation.

Begun as a project a year ago, Mobility originally planned to relocate families all over the nation. However, Lofaso said, "we soon found that there are jobs in North Carolina. It's just a matter of matching men with the jobs."

The U.S. Department of Labor recently approved a $1 million grant to relocate another 2,000 families in the state.

Mobility recruiters find low income families by trodding through fields, knocking on doors, walking streets and talking to church groups.

A North Carolina Fund spokesman said those over 40 years of age are reluctant to move. "Under 40, they have more energy and are not as tied to the area," he said. The Mobility recruiters "don't try to sell the man something he doesn't want."

"Without exception," Lofaso said, "the areas where employment is high have a scarcity of housing, particularly low income homes."

He said the program plans to establish nonprofit boarding houses in the relocation areas where the families can live until they find a permanent home.

The families are given an allowance for the moving costs and expenses until the first pay check arrives.

The majority of the 279 families moved to Charlotte, High Point, Thomasville, Salisbury, Statesville or Martinsville, Va.

Lofaso said the persons who have gotten jobs through the program are now earning an average of $3,400 a year, compared to an average $1,200 before relocation.

Crime Wave Hits in New York City

NEW YORK (AP)—A "statistical wave" of crime has hit New York, says Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary.

The number of reported burglaries and robberies for a 20-day period is nearly double the same period last year.

But Leary says its due only to "more accurate reporting" instituted by him, not a real crime wave.

U.S. Bombers Hit Cong in Major Strike

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. B52 bombers struck at a Viet Cong communications center in the Communist Saigon today dumping more than half a million pounds of explosives on the area, an Air Force spokesman said.

Flying single file, the giant planes made what the spokesman described as a "major assault" on the Viet Cong's military region No. 7.

Apparently prisoners captured by the 173rd Airborne Brigade and 1st Infantry Division in heavy fighting against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong several weeks ago provided information to pin down the location of a 10-building communications center which operated radio contact for the entire sector.

A major strike of B52's usually means 10 of the eight-engine bombers. Each is normally equipped to drop 50 750-pound bombs. A spokesman said this flight consisted of planes equipped to carry 60,000 pounds each.

The bombers also came in on target differently this time. Instead of dropping the combined loads at one time, the flight approached one plane at a time and each successive plane zeroed in on the same target.

The communications center was known to be an underground establishment except for the support buildings on top. The B52's bombs have special fuses that pierce the earth to 15 feet before exploding. It was presumed the first strike or two laid the underground complex open for the following flights to exert more punishment.

Asked if the enemy radio in the area was still functioning after the raid, the Air Force officer said: "No, it was silent."

The U.S. and South Vietnamese government forces together with their Australian, South Korean and New Zealand allies, carried on with military operations at undiminished pace.

The Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese regulars, however, generally avoided ground contact and the accent was placed on the aerial assaults.

Local Youth on Bicycle Is Hit

Yesterday about 4:30 p.m., Mark Robertson, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Robertson of Route 2 Hope, was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Nellie Rose Gillenwater of El Dorado on Highway 4. He was rushed to a local hospital by Herndon-Cornelius ambulance where an examination revealed head lacerations and bruises. The accident was investigated by Officers Rowe and Brown and State Trooper Stokes. No charges were filed.

Would Continue Negro Schools

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Negro schools of higher education must continue to operate, says Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga.

Mays told a fund-raising meeting:

"Because of three and a half centuries of disabilities under which Negroes suffered, we are duty bound and morally bound to give the more than 32,000 students in 33 Negro colleges and universities the best education available."

A New Definition of Obscenity

Surprisingly, in light of other rulings on books and movies, the U.S. Supreme Court has sent two men to jail for publishing obscene material. At the same time the court has apparently written a new definition of obscenity.

Ralph Ginzburg drew a five year prison term for publishing and mailing "Eros" and similar publications. "Eros" was an exquisitely produced bit of garbage. It sent a Yonkers book dealer, Edward Mishkin, to jail for three years and upheld a $28,000 fine for Ginzburg, a $12,000 fine for Mishkin.

In 1957, the Supreme Court said that the test of obscenity was "whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to prurient interests." In packing off Ginzburg and Mishkin to prison, the court amplified the 1957 ruling by stating that publications designed entirely to apply to "prurient interests" are not protected by the constitutional guarantees of free press and speech. This exactly the point which has been made by countless newspapers and millions of mothers and fathers in the land.

This guideline—"designed entirely to appeal to prurient interests"—provides an interesting and effective weapon for authorities to use in cleaning out obscene literature not only locally but at the source, for the Supreme Court now says much material may be banned from the mails. —Orlando (Fla.) Headache Remedies

When can a work of art be flawed by the intrusion of a commercial message about how to lose weight without suffering, or how to give new luster to hair with that moplike look?

That's the question being bandied about in the courts these days by the television industry and a group of Hollywood producers who are sensitive about the artistic integrity of their cinema triumphs of bygone years. The producers say that putting the pictures in order to insert the tv commercials is a violation of the efforts of the writers, directors and actors. We agree with the producers.

It's distracting as the Old Ned to have Robert Donat discover that he is in a nest of Nazis in that innocent-looking country house in Scotland, and then cut to a scene of two guys in a washateria arguing about detergents. It's kind of as if in the middle of listening to a Beethoven symphony, the listener suddenly had to put up with that jingle that wondered where "the yellow went."

But we are cynical. In any contest between art and commercials on tv, the viewers are, in the words of a lugubrious lament of a few seasons back, born to lose. Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise

Too Honest

A British magazine printed a series of pithy definitions of persons in various persuasions or occupations. One of them: "An economist is one who knows more about money than the people who have it." The American columnist William Feather then sent in his own definition of a columnist: "One who is often out of ideas but is well stocked with words." Did the fellow have to be so brutally honest? The best definition of a newspaper, however, was culled from some school examination papers. "Quill" Magazine reported that one young boy wasn't sure of the origin of the newspaper. "I don't know how newspapers got into the world and I don't think God does, for He never mentioned them in the Bible." —Lakeland (Fla.) Ledger

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Bank Board has approved a new state bank, the Peoples Bank of Piggott, Bank Commissioner Dick Simpson said Thursday.

Simpson said, however, that the charter will be withheld until the Piggott bank is approved by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The Peoples Bank application was opposed by the Piggott State Bank.
